About Me

My name is Paula, and music has been my life for as long as I can remember. My love for guitar started when I was 6 years old when I made a guitar out of cardboard and rubber bands as a craft with my mom, then grew when my grandfather let me use his acoustic guitar, which I would later inherit when I was 12. Throughout my life, I was also in several choirs ranging from church choirs to honor choirs in middle and high school where I learned how to read sheet music and different vocal techniques, which I applied to my guitar knowledge, leading to learning how to read tabs and sheet music for guitar. I have continued to keep music close to me, and am excited to have the opportunity to extend my knowledge to others!
